DEDICATION: DR. KARLE ERICKSON

Dr. Karle Erickson came to Lawrence University thirteen years ago. During his time here he has led the Concert Choir with distinction. His involvement with the Choral Society has ranged from performances of the Messiah and Bach's Magnificat to Honegger's A Christmas Cantata. As head of the Choral Studies department he has served as a model for many young teachers who will be shaping the world of music education in years to come.

By dedicating this Ariel to him we hope to bridge the gap between the Conservatory and the College, and to unite Lawrence for the future.

"Lawrence University has enjoyed an enviable reputation for many decades based upon an outstanding faculty and an intelligent and interesting student population. But those two ingredients alone, in my opinion, are insufficient to generate the kind of attention that will be necessary to sustain the institution through the next decade. A distinctive effort will need to be made to identify the university to its various publics. Imagination and creativity will need to be applied to all efforts in the area of public relations and publicity. Concern for the quality of student life on campus (faculty member and student alike) will need to be concerned more about his relationship with others than with his own selfish motives. Some sense of goodwill toward the university may then be established enabling each graduate to desire to support his alma mater.

I believe the year 1979-80 has brought with it the beginning of a new era at Lawrence. President Richard Warch has brought to his office a new sense of direction and a commitment to a set of ideals that are admirable and, I hope, thought to be worthy of everyone's attainment. Conservatory Dean Colin Murdoch has courageously approached a complete review of the curriculum in music that may bring into focus the objectives appropriate to the 1980's while assuring music students of a better opportunity to become educated in the liberal arts.

Together Dr. Warch and Mr. Murdoch present the university community with a positive outlook into the future.

I will leave Lawrence University with much respect for my colleagues and for the students with whom I have been associated. To each of you, but especially to the members of the Class of 1980, I wish the pleasure and happiness that comes from knowing the destination of one's life and how to chart its course."

-Dr. Karle Erickson

NINETEEN EIGHTY EVENTS

THE INSTALLATION OF PRESIDENT RICHARD WARCH

Richard Warch was installed as the fourteenth president of Lawrence University in a formal ceremony on November 29, 1979. Several past presidents of the university attended the installation, including Nathan Pusey, Curtis Tarr, Douglas Knight and Thomas Smith. Hanna Gray, President of the University of Chicago, and speaker for the occasion, challenged Warch to lead Lawrence according to its best traditions. He accepted this challenge as he accepted the position as president of the university. The Installation festivities included the Rededication of Main Hall, the Gala Ball and several concerts.

"We must acknowledge that the larger aims of liberal learning exceed the sum total of disciplines, divisions, and programs of the university. And we must affirm that to adhere to our traditional values is not to deny that we should also be venturesome and imaginative. In arguing that Lawrence should be constant in its purpose, I also intend that the university be bold in its purpose. We will serve our region and nation best if we hold fast to our mission in the face of the myriad distractions and distortions that will assail us in the next ten years. And we must be prepared to defend the genius of the university against those who would have us compromise that genius for short-term rewards."

-Acceptance Speech, November 29, 1979

"A liberal education is for free men and women. It is, in its largest and most ambitious formulation, an education that preserves and examines the triumphs of human imagination and experience, that values the worth and dignity of the individual, that affirms that a life of meaning involves a life of service, that believes that learned persons shape the social order in which they live. It is not an education designed to foster or pander to vocationalism that is merely self-serving."

-Unamuno Begs to Differ, Matriculation speech, September 27, 1979

"Society will — as it has — look to Lawrence and to similar colleges for a significant share of the men and women who will contribute to the general good creatively and critically and conscientiously. Woe to our nation and to ourselves if we respond only with a self-serving value-free intelligence that professes neither competence nor inclination to render judgements."

-Unamuno Begs to Differ, Matriculation speech, September 27, 1979

"The critics and skeptics say that the difficulty we have articulating the nature and aspirations of liberal learning is proof of the muddle-headedness and abstraction of our endeavors. In fact, it is testimony to the magnificence and importance of our undertaking and aspirations, that they cannot be reduced, packaged, and presented in 25 words or less. The consequences of liberal learning can be evoked, not produced. We can only have faith that responsible analysis will lead to responsible action and that our learning will prompt our living. For we die of cold and not of darkness. It is not the night that kills, but the frost."

-Unamuno Begs to Differ, Matriculation speech, September 27, 1979

"The genius of Lawrence is expressed in the lives and actions of its students and graduates. In them our lofty aims are vivified. In their sensibilities our greatest hopes are embodied. In their citizenship our social purposes are transmitted. For them and to them I say that a Lawrence education should always be more than credits and courses and degrees. It is not a four-year affair but an enduring association. A Lawrence education should serve forever as a set of expectations, of aspirations, and of assumptions that the university has for itself and for them: that with learning comes obligation, that with education comes responsibility, that with vocation comes service."

-Acceptance Speech, November 29, 1979

"At Lawrence, we resist a balkanized curriculum, we insist on breadth in a student's course of study, and we strive to make connections among disciplines and fields not because we possess some peculiar version of liberal learning, but because we possess some precious vision of the social order. It is a vision that insists that a democratic society remains free and viable when its people behave as citizens and when as citizens they are able and willing to manage its affairs intelligently and responsibly. We are not able without more light, not willing without more warmth."

MAIN HALL RENOVATION

Main Hall, long considered the trademark of Lawrence both visually and intellectually, underwent extensive renovation in 1979. The National Endowment for the Humanities Challenge

Grant Program, coupled with non-federal monetary gifts, provided funds for Main Hall Renovation which was initiated on March 13, 1979. Spring term humanitarians were but slightly inconvenienced in being relocated across campus, but their hardships were not unrewarded. Main Hall opened in the Fall of 1979 in renewed glory. The former central staircase was replaced by an elevator accompanied by two end stairways. Fire escapes were eliminated; point stonework and repaired, repainted woodwork, soffits, and columns were featured. Small faculty offices were enlarged, while large, functionless classrooms provided bases for smaller, seminar classrooms. In addition, renovation included complete systems of plumbing, wiring, heating, and sprinklers. Yet, regardless of such functional modernizations, the architectural improvements of Main Hall still maintained the building's original nineteenth century flavor; Main Hall yet remains Lawrence's favorite sentimental shrine.

BRIGGS

RAYMOND

SMALL HOUSES

The small houses were closed at the end of the 1979-80 academic year. The decision to close Raymond, Briggs, East and Cooke houses was made by the administration third term after much discussion and opposition from members of the student body. The reason given for the removal of this popular alternative campus life style was the rising cost of energy and maintenance. The administration feels the alternative is no longer a viable one.

NEW STUDENT WEEK

While upperclassmen savored their last week of summer vacation, seniors Bob Perille and Mike Ladevich joined Lawrence's class of 1983 in "New Student Week". With the aid of counsellors and faculty members, New Student Week served as an orientation and prelude to Lawrentian life. The evening's computer dance helped to "break the ice" as new Lawrentians danced (with dates!) and socialized in Riverview Lounge. The following Sunday afternoon featured Dean Taylor's speech, "The First of the Liberal Arts", and served as inspiration to both freshmen and attending upperclassmen alike. The remaining week's activities included counsellor-section meetings, faculty introductions, advisor-advisee conferences, and most certainly, parties, parties, and more parties!

Last year, Lawrence reinstituted the tradition of all-University Convocations. This year the tradition was continued in a fine and diverse manner. "Unamuno Begs to Differ" -Richard Warch, Matriculation, September 27, "Forty Years in Moscow: An American Reporter's Story" -Henry Shapiro, October 18, "What Hope in the Middle East?" -Lord Caradon, November 6, "Installation Address" -Hanna Gray, Installation Ceremony, November 29, "The Nuclear Family and its Critics" -Christopher Lasch, January 31, "The Future of Innovation Belongs to You" -McGeorge Bundy, February 21, "The Fallen Monarch; Thoughts on the Baroque" -Karl Weintraub, April 17, "The United States and China in World Affairs" -Michael Oksenberg, April 22, "Lessons in Legacies: The 'Liberal Arts' in a Republic of Virtue" -William Bennett, Honors Convocation, May 22.

SPECIAL EVENTS

The Special Events Committee sponsored a variety of events on campus this year, including the Gary Burton and Eberhard Weber quartets on October 2, Steve Goodman and Clan Gilmour on November 17, the Minnesota Jazz Dance Company on January 17, and the Kanopy Dance Theatre on May 1. Bhaskar Chandavarkar, the Ethel M. Barber Visiting Professor of Fine and Performing Arts performed in the Chapel on April 26.

ENTERTAINMENT A LA CARTE

Tired of Downer food? Tired of Downer atmosphere? "Brownbag it," as Lizz Read, student coordinator of 1979-80 Entertainment a la Carte, would heartily recommend. Entertainment a la Carte, initiated in spring of 1978, was a weekly series of informal concerts. Held in Riverview Lounge every Thursday afternoon at 12:15, Lawrentians, Appletonians, and faculty members alike could be entertained for free. Entertainment a la Carte was sponsored in part by the Performing Arts Council, but featured varied programs, including student jazz ensembles, belly dancers, faculty ensembles, even the Royal Lichtenstein Quarter-Ring Sidewalk Circus. Instead of one more Downer meal, Lawrentians "brown-bagged" their lunches weekly, to enjoy an hour's entertainment - a la carte that is!

HOMECOMING

Highlighted by spirited Lawrentians and record numbers of returning alums, Homecoming 1979 was truly a homecoming indeed. The weekend's activities, coordinated by senior Julie Dyer, fell into full swing, beginning Friday evening with the annual Gong Show held in Riverview Lounge. Saturday morning's Homecoming Parade was highlighted by such dignitaries as President Warch, the Americanos Drum and Bugle Corps, and members of the Lawrence Homecoming Court. An all-school picnic in front of Alexander Gymnasium preceded the Viking football game against Cornell College. Game festivities included the crowning of Queen Karen Zöerb and King Ross Quaintance, and culminated in a stunning Viking victory. The weekend's celebration faded out with the sounds of the Jay Wells' Band at the Homecoming Dance.

CELEBRATE

Blood-shot eyes, slap-happy conversations, empty coffee cups, books haplessly strewn — all indications of an all-night study session? Hardly, as such were the scenes of Lawrence University's 15th Annual Midwest Trivia Contest. Commencing at exactly 10:00:37 p.m. on Friday, February 1, and continuing through midnight of Sunday, February 3, WLFM broadcasted fifty straight hours of pure, unadulterated Trivia! Lawrentians flocked to individual dorm and fraternity teams, while off-campus participants supplied their own competition. All in all, nearly two hundred teams participated, battling for points through 395 stumper questions. The victorious on-campus team hailed as "Hordes from the North," claiming 2,120 points, while the leading scorer and victor of all "Triviaphiles" was an off-campus team, "F.I.S.T.," boasting an impressive 2,165 points. Participating Lawrentians ardently competed, regardless of their possibilities for triumph. Viva la Trivia!!

The London Program operates throughout the school year, with director Richard Sanerib and English professor Thomas Dale. Students take regular Lawrence courses and courses designed to take advantage of the British Museum and the theaters. The program is based in the Arden Hotel near Hyde Park, with receptionist Miss Riley and her cat, Snoopy. Students get around while in London, taking jaunts to the Continent and the English countryside, each with its many interesting sites.

The 1979 East European Slavic Trip began June 11 and ended September 18. Thirty-six spirited individuals, including Professor George Smalley, traveled through 18 countries gaining much confidence in their abilities as the trip progressed. Touring cities and seeing such sites as Warsaw, Prague, the Hermitage Museum, and the Blue Mosque broadened the cultural and historical perspectives of each member. Above all, the generosity of the people in each country enriched the experiences and enhanced the knowledge of the group making the trip memorable.

PARIS SEMINAR

Students spend the month of September in Tours, where they study at the Institut d'études francaises de Touraine. In October and November, in Paris, they follow a two-part program of language work at the Alliance Francaise and independent study under the direction of the resident Lawrence faculty member, Richard Stowe. Students are housed with families in Tours and in small hotels on the Left Bank while in Paris; they are left as free as possible to take advantage of the many opportunities which both locations offer.

A one-term program of study in Munich, Germany. The first four weeks of the term are devoted to intensive language work at a Goethe-Institute Centre in Rothenberg ob der Tauber. During this period students not only acquire the fluency necessary for communicating in German with Germans but also gain an introduction to modern German life. During the last six weeks of the term students work in small seminar type courses on aspects of German culture: literature, theater, art, music, and government. The Lawrence director Hans Ternes, with the help of specialists from the University of Munich, directs these seminars. Lectures and discussions are in German. Throughout the term students have opportunity to take advantage of the many cultural offerings in Munich.

The Marine Biology Term is designed to give students first hand experience in one of the world's most important productive ecosystems: coral reef environments. The highlight of the experience was the field trip south to Grand Cayman Island from April 15th to the 29th.

Sixteen Biology majors, and marine biologist, Sumner Richman, assisted by Dave Speilbauer of Inland Seas Diving Academy, Neenah studied various diverse coral reefs off the Cayman shore, using their snorkelling in aquatic environments.

The students also designed and carried out individual projects focusing on a particular problem of the oceanic environment. Occasional breaks in the intense study allowed for a chance to taste the Caribbean culture. The students were well received by the natives and shared in the fun of the local bars and weekly live calypso festival.

COMMENCEMENT 1980

The One Hundred Thirty-first Commencement Exercises of Lawrence University took place on a cool and windy day on the campus green, June 15, 1980. After opening remarks by Thomas Reeves, President Richard Warch introduced the Speaker, Senator William Proxmire. After a somewhat lengthy speech appropriate to the election year, came the awarding of degrees. Four honorary degrees were awarded. Students from the Institute of Paper Chemistry received their Doctorates and Masters of Science degrees. 32 Lawrence students received their Bachelor of Music degrees with Sara Matthews and Jane Scheuer graduating Summa Cum Laude. 241 students received their Bachelor of Arts degrees including six who graduated Summa Cum Laude: Richard Davis, Louis Jost, Richard Roller, Michael Troy, Bruce Wermuth, and Jonathan Zilber. The occasion was enlivened by snapping of firecrackers and the popping of champagne corks.

FOOTBALL

The Lawrence University football team set off on the 1979 campaign with high hopes and great expectations, based on both the talented number of seniors returning and the large number of new freshman recruits, a group surging with potential. Their expectations were not to be denied; after a preseason loss to Milton College, they proved themselves in test after test. Lawrence culminated its season with the conference championship game against Carleton College. On an icy field with only minutes before had been covered with snow, Carleton drew the first points on an aerial strike. From then on Lawrence dominated with their 'smear machine' defence which controlled Carleton's feeble thrusts, and their offence showing how great it was. Led by Bruce Barkwill's rushing and Kurt Henrickson's three interceptions, Lawrence won the title by the embarrassing score of 52-7.

All-conference players for Lawrence were seniors Jim Petran, quarterback; Scott Roeper, center; Bruce Barkwill, defensive back; Greg Linnemanstons, linebacker; and Bill Simon, defensive end, as well as sophomore Ken Urbanski, tackle. Patran, Barkwill, Henrickson and Simon were further honored as honorable mention members of the AP Title All American football team.

The 1979-1980 Basketball team, having faced an unusually tough schedule, compiled an overall record of 8 wins and 14 losses, a promising showing in Mike Gallus's first year as head coach. Throughout the season the team defensively was ranked between 9th and 15th in NCAA Division III standings. Of individual achievements, Rob Cohen received Academic All American, 2nd Team All Conference, Most Valuable Player, and over 1000 points in 4 years. Brian Fenhaus and Ray Smith both received Defensive Player of the year. The Spirit award went to Dave Knopp, and Chris Matheus was named Most Improved Player.

There are many people who helped in their own individual ways to make this Ariel possible. My thanks to: Mike Korten Hof for not leaving me without a photographer; the Registrar's office, namely Carmen, for knowing all the answers to most of the questions; Rosie, Cliff and the others in the Business Office; Chuck the mailman; Tom Lonnquist; Pub Board, Ed Last for continual support and confidence; Elizabeth Forter, Bruce Pourciau, Richard Long and other faculty and administrative personnel for their concern and interest; Win Thrall for the cover design; and many thanks to the staff for coming through when I was in confusion. Special thanks to those who helped on the last deadline when I was all for skipping the country; namely Nola Ward and others in the Office of Campus Life, the summer residents of the Phi Tau house and other people around campus, namely Diane Wolter and Chris Matheus. Lastly I would like to thank those who helped me maintain my sanity, the Pi Phis and John Monsey.

EDITOR'S NOTE

The last page of the book, and a chance for me to write what I think. It has been very trying for me, as many of my friends have witnessed. I became editor spring term with only a few pages completed and many ideas and plans interspersed with a huge mess. I was presented with three choices: go on as planned and incur financial penalties, forget the Ariel for this year, or cut down and revise. I chose the latter, and believe it was the right decision. A yearbook is an important part of a school and serves as a history and reference for future years. I have tried to put more into the book both in coverage and in style. However, the limits of time have taken their toll, as has an undertrained and under-experienced staff. I often ended up just doing it myself to save time and peace of mind. I have worked on yearbooks for six years and have strong feelings about what they should be. For a yearbook to be a complete history it should cover the school year from September to June, not parts of two academic years. Therefore the change to fall delivery is in my opinion a good one. I hope the Ariel stays with fall delivery, although it results in another problem — added costs of mailing to seniors. Everything has a trade-off, as in the case of studio portraits vs. informals.

This term my attitude has been let us get the book done as well as possible with what we have and remember that next year will be better. Better because it will have the planning of an editor, not the pulling together of a managing editor suddenly transformed into editor. A yearbook should have a theme; a unifying factor. This book lacks this very important element. I feel as though I am making apologies when in fact I have nothing to be sorry for. For me it has been a good, albeit tiring, experience. If given the same decision to make with the hindsight I have now gained, I would say no, but it is too late for that now. All I can say is next year will be better.
